Solicitors Stymied

PAHOKEE — Local residents, bothered with peddlers selling everything from dollies to dandruff-remover, will now have a fighting chance to remove the strange feet in their front doorways.

Two city ordinances, one already adopted, the other up for final reading before City Council next week, are putting sharp teeth in the Chamber of Commerce solicitation control program, C of C President Leonard Dobrow said this week.

City Council, at the request of the Chamber of Commerce, reviewed its laws on peddling and soliciting for charity, and following the almost certain adoption of the second ordinance next Monday, will take a good deal of "the bite" off local citizens.

What To Ask

In the future, Dobrow said, residents can ask door-to-door peddlers and solicitors for the following:

Solicitors for charities and religious purposes, with the exception of recognized local church or benevolent groups, must have made application at City Hall or the Chamber of Commerce, and be able to present an "approved" card. To get that card, the solicitor must have been screened by a C of C committee which checks the size of the solicitor's commission, the name and address of his employer, and the financial statement of the organization he represents, showing exactly how previous funds collected have been used.

Peddlers must have a business license issued by the city ($10 annually for produce, meat, and general peddling; $25 annually for photograph and magazine salesmen), after they furnish a local physician's statement that they are free of infectious diseases, be fingerprinted, photographed, and give a complete personal record to the police department.

Dobrow pointed out that solicitation control is one of the major services of the Chamber of Commerce, but that the revised ordinances will put the full support of the law behind the service in case of dispute.

MAIL DELIVERY TO BG HOMES

BELLE GLADE — City mail delivery service will be extended to include the Sylva Heights subdivision in the near future, provided residents comply with certain requirements, Assistant postmistress Rosa Nash announced yesterday.

Extension of delivery will be subject to the presence of improved streets, house numbers, street lights, street signs, and mail boxes.

Thus far, about half the houses in the subdivision have numbers, and City Manager Tom Carle has assured the post office that street signs will be placed in the very near future. Residents wishing the new delivery service are urged by Mrs. Nash to begin using their street addresses in mail, and to comply with requirements pertaining to their houses.

After meeting in Miami yesterday and early today the committee of directors will arrive by bus where they will preface their tour of the Experiment Station with luncheon at Bell's Restaurant as guests of Roy Vandegrift, jr., president of Everglades branch, United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. Florida Site

With the election at its last meeting of Dr. Willard M. Field, director of the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, as chairman of the committee, Florida became the site of this year's inspection of experiment stations and activities. Among them are the tropical station at Homestead where plants are introduced and grown in quarantine; the citrus station at Lake Alfred, center of the fruit investigation; the Glades station and the Gainesville station.

The visiting committee is composed of directors or assistant directors of nine experiment stations in an area from Connecticut to Texas. The vice-chairman of the committee, Catherine J. Personius, is the only woman member of the group and is associated with the experiment station at Cornell.

Two Glades men, both of Pahokee, are among 27 applicants to professional schools approved by the Florida certification committee for regional education. Frank G. Handley and Charles M. McCurdy have been approved for veterinary medicine, the University of Florida has announced.

BELLE GLADE — Get out and vote next Thursday if you want the referendum on extension of city boundaries to count.

City Manager Tom Carle urged after Commission Wednesday night.

It has been determined that one more vote than 50% of the registered free holders must vote or else the referendum will be defaulted, Carle said.

Action began by Mrs. Frances Rutledge to move some of her condemned buildings outside the city limits on the south side of Palm Beach Rd. east to include the property of more than 51% of the freeholders in that area. The Commission decided to let the resident freeholders there and freeholders in the city vote on the extension. Temporary moving permits for the condemned buildings were suspended until after the referendum and allowed the buildings to remain unremoved until after the vote on Thursday.

Rolling places are American Legion Hall for resident freeholders and the Glades Machine Shop for resident freeholders requesting annexation. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. No person will be permitted to vote unless he or she is a resident freeholder, if outside the city limits in the area requesting annexation, or for those living in the city the voter must be registered.

Registration books for the September election will be open 10 days after the July 1 election. In September, water fluoridation will be an issue besides the regular election. Persons who will have completed 12 months residence in Belle Glade 10 days prior to the election, and are otherwise qualified, may vote.

Owners Get Time

BELLE GLADE — Three weeks' grace period was given E. M. Taylor and E. T. Morris to submit estimates of cost of repair before final action to condemn their respective properties is taken, in Wednesday's Commission meeting at Belle Glade.

It was moved that he be given that time to get a bona-fide builder to submit a cost figure based on repairs approved by N. B. Willis, city building inspector. Ordinance requires that cost of repairs to condemned properties to bring them up to standard should not exceed 50% of their assessed valuation. Similar action was taken on Morris' request, for time.

PROCLAIMED in cooperation with the Florida Safety Council that July is a month in which safety on the highways be stressed.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Florida's farmers and small business are due to get a "break" in the new tax bill being reported to the Senate this week.

Both have a vital stake in the more liberalized depreciation provisions of the proposed new tax code. They are especially dependent upon their current earnings, or short-term loans, to operate and expand. This "write-off" liberalization will permit faster recovery of a capital investment, as in the case of purchase of a tractor—or a bull. It allows more economic "elbowroom" on both farm and business.

In addition, farmers will be permitted to list as straight expense, against income, the cost of soil and water conservation, but limited to 25 percent of gross income. This is especially valuable throughout our flood control areas. Our timbermen also will get a "fairer."

As a member of the Senate Finance Committee, I feel much is being done to protect the interests of the small businessmen and the farmer in our state. We must encourage and bolster our agriculture and business economy, thus strengthening our nation for resistance to world Communist expansion.

"Closing the Barn Door": It seemed to me that the Navy was four years late in starting its investigation of the senior cadets who, although graduates, were given commissions held up for security checks.

I have written to the Secretary of Defense, therefore, urging that security, or loyalty, checks be made as part of the entrance prerequisites for our military academies.

The people of the United States not only spend thousands upon the education of its young officers, but, illegally place their hands on the nation's future safety. If any citizen's loyalty must be unquestionable, it certainly is our military officer.

President Eisenhower has signed into law my amendment to the railroad retirement act, thus ending the discrimination of the "double penalty clause."

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission is investigating a recent Florida incident to determine whether awards shall be made to Boy Scouts of South Miami, Henry Holt and Edward Griffin. After reading how these youngsters saved Mrs. Susan Shelly from death in her burning home, I sent clippings about the affair to the Commission at Pittsburgh.

Another First: Not that it means very much, but a library of Congress research specialist, who took the trouble to delve back into history on the subject, tells me I am the first Florida senator to serve on the Senate Finance Committee in nearly half a century. Senator James P. Tallahassee of Jacksonville, and Tampa, was on this committee back in 1910. But the job wasn't as complex, then—had no social security or income taxes, and tariff policies were fairly simple.

HOLLAND HONORED: Senator Spessard Holland has just been named with the President of Venezuela, Marcos Jimenez, to receive the American Road Builders Association 1953 Pan American Highway Award. A silver plaque will be presented to each of these men at the 5th Annual Pan American Highway Congress in Caracas in July—for their work in furthering the advancement of highway projects in the Western Hemisphere. Holland, as a member of the Senate Committee on Roads, was instrumental in getting the U.S. put up money to help finance the Pan American Highway now being built to South America.

DUE CREDIT: Last week President Eisenhower signed the "Bridges" bill. Last year when it was introduced by Sen. George Smathers, it was known as the Smathers bill. But politics being what they are, and the bill being a fair and just bill, it was inevitable that the Republicans would take credit for it. The real name for the bill is HR 356 and it's an amendment to the Railroad Retirement Act. Under this bill, retired people drawing pensions from the railroad also will be permitted to draw social security payments if they have earned them. Prior to this time, they could only draw one—even though they might have paid into both of them. This bill will benefit some 38,000 retired workers—many of whom live in Florida.

HEARINGS ARE OVER: FORE: The House took the day off last Friday. It may or may not have had anything to do with the closing down of the McCarthy-Army hearings, but most of the members took this rare chance to relax. Seen at Burning Tree Golf Course (where the President plays) were Congressmen S. Heflin, his brother, Byron, and Norwood Lockett, of Leesburg—here for a weekend visit with Syd.

are underway, and are expected to lead to Senate enactment of legislation to expand the operations of the Export-Import Bank and make a major contribution to inter-American trade.

The Export-Import Bank, as I told the Senate more than two months ago, had been forced to take a cautious operation, with credit policies so hamstrung, that the United States virtually was driving many eager Latin American customers to European markets. There were even rumors that the great institution had withdrawn from the field of economic development.

The current bill will extend credit authorizations to three years, loan limits to $3,000,000 and otherwise liberalize the system. The proposed legislation still does not go far enough, but is an improvement.

Not everybody can make this claim. In fact, I doubt that anybody can make it. Lisa, the other pup reporter (apprentice, second class) and I have gone underground.

We join the President during a simulated air-bomb attack, and the Commies who have discovered the FBI.

Agreed, our situation is slightly different. It comes about because the bosses ignored an old admonishment, "Don't Fence Me In," and wired the front half of the yard for dogs. They thought it was high time Lisa and I descended from the patio upstairs, being selfishly tired of fleas and trimming our nails.

It was with as much majesty as shortlegged dogs ever muster that we pawed our way down steps to our new fenced yard. Dachshunds were not repeated were not made to go up and down steps, and I suppose when we do it looks like the situation in a well-known old English madrigal, "Pull the Patrol Wag on Closer to the Curb—the Steps Are Too High For Mother."

But with what joy we finally arrived on terra firma! A yard to play in, all ours!

As soon discovered the terra wasn't so firm, and started digging up the bushes in front of the shop. Now Lisa isn't so firm, either, having been reprimanded severely by the bosses for her rash actions.

But that gets me to my point. We have had a heck of a time "adjusting" as the social workers call it, because it's quite a change from a gravelled roof to grass and dirt and plants.

The moral of the story is: Peace and quiet are hard to attain—ya gotta dig for 'em.

A Communication

Dear Editor:

The following letter should be of interest to the residents of Pahokee and Belle Glade. It was enclosed an article entitled "Dying Community Lifts Self by Boot Straps."

Unfortunately, the author of the letter did not sign his name to it, and I would like to take this opportunity to invite him to come to the next meeting of the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, July 6, at 8 p.m. at the Chamber office.

We should like his first-hand suggestions, as we would like those of every resident, for the Chamber of Commerce board is composed of only 12 heads, using limited funds, to work for the good of Pahokee. It is often easy to criticize, without understanding the problems of such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce.

I am sure our friends in the Belle Glade Chamber would agree.

Yours sincerely,
Leonard Dobrow
President
Pahokee Chamber of Commerce

Pahokee, Florida
June 21, 1954

Mr. Leonard Dobrow,
President: Pahokee Chamber of Commerce

Dear Mr. Dobrow:

"I read this enclosed newspaper item in the Palm Beach Post Times, Sunday, June 20th with a great deal of interest. In fact, it was so interesting I decided to mail it to you with a prayer that you would read it and pass it on to members of the Chamber for their study and reference without misunderstanding the problems of such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce."

"The great trouble with Pahokee is they do a lot of talking but one never sees any actual action. Your neighboring town of Belle Glade really moves along, each year showing greater progress."

"Our town of Pahokee remains just a country town loaded with a lot of moss backs that are not for progress, would fight against it if it was put to them for votes, and yet some of them are members of your Chamber of Commerce."

"How far do you think this town would go and how much do you think they would give in money, land and taxes to get industry interested in us? The minute they heard there was some industry wanting to come here they would up the price of land and do every thing they could to profit immediately."

"Let's take, for instance, the building situation here. In Belle Glade they are condemning unsafe and unsightly buildings and MAKING THE ORDER STICK. WHY DON'T THEY DO THAT HERE? All we do is to investigate the conditions in our town and then, because we find it is a hot potato, we drop it pronto."

"Look at the empty buildings and the filthy vacant lots right in the heart of our business district. SOMETHING COULD BE DONE ABOUT THEM I am sure. People driving through our town, from the high school to the colored school must come away with a fine mental impression of a progressive town RIGHT IN THE VEGETABLE GROWING SECTION OF THE RICH EVERGLADES."

"I could go on and on, but why waste the time. You can't do it alone, no matter what good intentions you may have. But I would sure like to see less talk and more action in the promotion of our City of Pahokee. You are doing a great job, but GET BEHIND your membership and whip them into real action so we, CAN POINT WITH CIVIC PRIDE TO WHAT OUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS DOING."

ROBSEVATIONS

By
BENJAMIN S. ROBERTS

The handwriting on the wall is legible, it is bold enough for all to see.

On Sunday 10 United Nations member states voted to render Guatemala's complaint that anti-communist forces were invading her to the Organization of American States. One United Nation, Soviet Russia, voted against referring the issue to the OAS.

No other vote was expected. Russia engineered the situation and was not going to stand by and let governments in this hemisphere settle it.

As long ago as 1950 Russian strategists saw developing in Guatemala internal disorders of a native to be exploited by Russia. Moscow trained Guatemalans followed tried and practical patterns to bring about an environment in their country sympathetic to communist plans.

Non-Communist Guatemalans protested and were temporarily imprisoned and then released across the border. Many of their fellows fled abroad. Russian strategists foresaw the day when these non-communists abroad would attempt to throw off the communist yoke in their native land. That time came last week. Moscow knew it would; the reds are not interested in Guatemala, they want the hemisphere. This is there testing ground, here their carefully laid plans will succeed or fail. Now they will know where they stand in the western hemisphere.

It is significant that thinking Guatemalans have awakened up to the fact they are but pawns in a bigger game. The Guatemalan representative in the U.N. asked that OAS send a team of observers in spite of Russia's vote against any interference by that body. That the Guatemalans reds are suddenly aware of the bear whose tail they hold is all to the good.

It is up to us now to put our foot down. The provisions of the Monroe Doctrine give us the right. They hold that foreign intervention in this hemisphere is not to be tolerated. If our troops are to be used anywhere to forestall communism our front doorstep seems the logical place.

Our neighbors in this hemisphere cannot say that imperialist forces are intervening either for territorial gain or for profit. This they know is untrue. If our propaganda position in the world is to be "endangered with the headline imperialist interventionists," let it be so.

The time has come for us to act. The Organization of American States must stand together. Let others of its membership be plucked off by red-bred plots.

The legible handwriting says that Russia is here to wipe us out, it is boldly written, its answer demands bold action.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

No Sale!

Right in front of Granny White's beautiful old house on Maple Avenue there's a brand-new sign: "Antiques. Inquire Within."

Now—don't get excited. Granny explained it all the other night—after we settled down in her parlor, me with my temperate beer, Granny with her tea.

I asked her if she was really going in the antique business. "Oh, no," says Granny, "I wouldn't sell anything. I put that sign up so folks would come in and talk—and look around. If they insist on a price, I tell them some outpageous figure! I guess I just like people," she said. From where I sit Granny can be excused for her little ruse. She may be in her eighties, but her mind is young—and open. 'She's the kind of person who's made this town so wonderful. Granny not only likes people—but she respects them and their preferences and opinions. Come to think of it, "liking" and "respecting" mean much the same thing, don't they?

Belle Glade Episcopalians Acquire Parish Property

E. M. Lively, treasurer of St. John the Apostle Episcopal Church in Belle Glade announced that the property at NW Ave. H and 2nd St. is being purchased for their new church home and parish house. It is planned to complete the construction of the parish house first to provide a home for the rector and furnish a meeting place for the church services and social gatherings until the completion of the church is completed.

Meetings have been conducted in the Woman's Club building and in the homes of members for several months. A fund-raising campaign is planned for the near future in order that plans may be set underway for building program. Plans to buy a site and erect a church and parish house were recently approved by Rev. Martin Bram, suffragan bishop of the diocese of South Florida.

This is a non-denominational effort for all Christians, and a large Biblical chart covering more than 4,000 years of church history is used in illustrating the greatest story ever told. The meeting is under the direction of Radio Evangelist G. W. Pendleton, director and speaker of the national radio program, and the local New Testament Church of God, assisted by J. B. Wacaster, minister of Morgantown, N. C., and the pastor, Mrs. E. Wooten.

Game Dept. Man

Adds JC's

BELLE GLADE — Frank Novak, information and education officer of the Florida State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission was speaker at the Belle Glade Jaycee meeting Thursday.

He explained that the commission was instituted as a constitutional body through a referendum vote in 1942. The commission is operated solely through revenue derived from license sales and fines. Novak outlined duties of conservation officers, including public relations work and organization of Junior Conservation Leagues for each district.

He urged a local junior league, stating that members help conservation officers with their duties as well as educating the individual boy, thus opening to him a prospective career. The boys help relieve the shortage of men and money and further the conservation of Florida wildlife.

The possibility of sponsoring a local Junior Conservation League is being considered by the project committee of the Jaycees who will present their recommendations to a meeting on July 1st.
